Introduction to delineation of appearance and character in natal astrology. The following document is a hand-written analysis of Franklin Roosevelt made using the principles of medieval predictive astrology. The discipline of natal astrology focuses on the fate of an individual based on a horoscope cast for the moment of birth. Within natal astrology, the 1st house occupying the eastern horizon at birth describes the native: physical vitality, appearance, and character. Between the Hellenistic and Medieval eras several specialized models have been developed to assess these characteristics. They include longevity (vitality and length of life), physiognomy (form and shape of the face and body), victor of the chart (overall life purpose), manners (social conduct including ethical behavior), and temperament (elemental mix of fire, earth, air, and water with applications in medical astrology). Prior research has presented models and results for longevity (A Rectification Manual: The American Presidency, Chapter 4) and physiognomy (Astrological Physiognomy: History and Sources & Astrological Physiognomy: Empirical Tests of the Leo Rising Decan). This paper presents one of forty horoscopes chosen to populate an initial data set to investigate the victor.

Victor of the Chart. Included are two competing models for computing the victor of the chart said to be the single most powerful planet in the horoscope. According to Plato's follower Porphyry, by configuration in the natal horoscope the planet signifying the victor of the chart shows the life choice made by the soul prior to incarnation. Plato explains the details of his soul model in The Myth of Er found in the closing pages of his work The Republic. Porphyry and his peer Antiochus offer specific rules for determining the victor of the chart. The method of Antiochus/Porphyry is compared to a later method for determining the victor suggested by the Jewish Rabbi Abraham ben Meir Ibn Izra who was an active philosopher and astrologer in the 12th century. For a discussion of these two models, see the companion paper Victor of the Chart: Testing Methods of Antiochus/Porphyry and Ibn Ezra which serves as a key to what is presented here.

Manners. Plato was not alone among Greek philosophers in conceiving models for the soul. Aristotle's model of vegetative, sensitive, and intellective soul levels assigned respectively to the plant, animal, and human kingdoms was taken up by Ptolemy who found a correspondence between the sensitive and intellective soul and Moon and Mercury in the natal horoscope. Configuration of the Moon and Mercury, with special emphasis given to their rulers, is a second method for analyzing the soul. Ptolemy introduces this model in Tetrabiblos III.13 "Of the Quality of the Soul". Subsequent authors refer to this model as "Significators of the Soul" or "Manners". A summary template for the Moon and Mercury is presented in the paper and will be further developed in future versions.

Franklin Roosevelt (January 30, 1882 – April 12, 1945)

Consistently ranked as one of America's top three Presidents, Franklin Roosevelt is remembered for leading America out of the depths of the Great Depression and to an Allied victory against Axis powers during World War II. At just over twelve years, FDR's Presidential term was the longest in American history. The lengthiness of his term, which subsequently spurred passage of the 22nd Amendment limiting a President to two terms, solidified the Democratic Party's hold over national politics for decades after his death.

Roosevelt was born into a wealthy family and attended Groton, Harvard, and Columbia Law School before dropping out after he passed the New York Bar exam in 1907. Looking back, Roosevelt often recalled Groton headmaster Endicott Peabody's admonition for Christians to help the less fortunate by entering public service.

Franklin's decision to marry his cousin Eleanor Roosevelt was met with fury by Franklin's mother Sara Delano Roosevelt whose presence is strongly registered in all biographical accounts. Controlling the purse strings, Sara was able to maintain a close watch over her son Franklin. The smothering mother-son relationship went so far that when Franklin purchased a New York City apartment, Sara purchased an adjacent apartment which was linked to Franklin's by a doorway. One of the few times Sara came to Eleanor's rescue was after Franklin's affair with Lucy Mercer was discovered. Sara demanded Franklin maintain his marriage for the sake of his political career - which he did. Nevertheless, Eleanor severed sexual relations with Franklin after his affair and established a separate house for herself named Valkill on the Roosevelt Hyde Park estate. Before the affair, Eleanor bore Franklin five children, four of whom survived to adulthood.

Franklin Roosevelt’s early political career included a seat in the New York State Senate, Assistant Secretary of the US Navy, and as the Democratic Vice Presidential Candidate for the 1920 Presidential Election which was lost to the Republicans. In August 1921 at the age of 39, Roosevelt contracted polio (some modern physicians suspect Guillain-Barre syndrome was the actual illness) which left him paralyzed from the waist down for the rest of his life. Roosevelt learned to stand with metal braces and went to great lengths to conceal the extent of his disability from the public eye. One legacy of Roosevelt's illness was creation of the charity March of Dimes whose funding ultimately led to the successful polio vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas Salk in 1955. Today, Roosevelt is still pictured on the ten cent coin known as the 'dime.'

Roosevelt revived his political career with the first of two successful bids for Governor of New York in 1928. In 1932, he successfully defeated Republican Presidential incumbent Herbert Hoover amidst the volatile backdrop of the American economy in a deflationary depression. In contrast to Hoover who drew the line on charity with free welfare payments, Roosevelt ignored his predecessors' restrictions and proceeded to implement the most activist policies ever conceived or implemented by the Federal Government. Roosevelt succeeded in rescuing America from the Great Depression; however, the recession of 1938 underscored the fragility of the American economy which did not finally stabilize until the advent of World War II. With the rise of Hitler's Nazi Germany threatening American allies in Europe, Roosevelt initially lent support to Britain through the Lend Lease program of early 1941. After Pearl Harbor there was no turning back. He died on April 12, 1945 of a sudden heart attack, just weeks before Hitler's own death by suicide on April 30, 1945.

Model Summary

(for model details see www.regulus-astrology.com/research.html)

Physiognomy

Ascendant sign: Virgo
Ruler of Ascendant sign: Mercury/Aquarius
Ascendant decan: Taurus
Ruler of Ascendant decan: Venus/Aquarius
Planets/Nodes in sign of rising decan: Jupiter/Taurus, Saturn/Taurus

Photo taken at youth suggests the triangular Virgo shape in Willner's facial model, but as an adult his lower jaw filled out somewhat. The rising decan model predicts a rectangular forehead, in line with Ascendant decan ruler Venus in the fixed sign of Aquarius. However, the mutual reception between Venus and Saturn, not to mention placement of both Jupiter and Saturn in the sign of the rising decan, add a strong Taurus emphasis to the shape of the face. Willner's soft rectangular shape appears a fit.

Longevity: 63y 2m 11d

Releaser and kadukhudhāh. Figure is nocturnal and the Moon/Cancer/11$^{th}$ qualifies as releaser. Moon in her own sign of Cancer trumps all other candidates for the releaser and grants 108 years. Mars receives by bound and aspects by antiscia; Mars deducts 15 minor years. Saturn receives by exaltation and triplicity and deducts 30 minor years. Net projection is 63 years which is accurate.

Victor of the Chart: Mars/Gemini-rx

Both methods of Ibn Ezra and Porphyry highlight Mars as a candidate. Angular in the MC, received by Mercury, and about to make his second station, Mars is well qualified to be VOC. This choice is consistent with Franklin Roosevelt's political career as wartime President and feats of political trickery necessary to pull an isolationist American populace towards open warfare with Axis Powers.
